Union State Convention.

The citizens of Maine who are unconditionally loyal to the Government of the United States, and who are not in sympathy with the rebellion, have organized a Union State Convention, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor to be supported by the Union State of Maine at the next election.

What is the Tendency of the Democratic Party?

We called on Saturday to a letter from Mr. L. O. Sullivan, formerly editor of the Democrat in Bangor, now resident in London. Professor Moore—writing some points which he tells the "democracy" of this country they must and will soon stand upon. We now give that part of the letter in full, as we find it published in the New York Times. It will serve to show to our people in the clearest light, the objects and aims of the democratic leaders, and ought to determine every honest man who has hitherto voted that ticket to abandon the concern at once and forever. It seems to us that all democrats who really desire to save the country from destruction and ruin must abandon an organization which is in the hands of downright scoundrels and traitors. Mr. Sullivan is now abroad, and therefore not being restrained by any wholesome fear of public indignation, speaks out plainly what is in his mind. He denounces the Union as having been "very defective," and effects no sort of regard for the present Constitution. He avows his hearty sympathy with the South—rejects every triumph of their arms—declares that every American worthy of the name should bear "more proud to glory in the magnificent glory of defeat, than to revel in the exultation of a few months' success," and declares that if the South is conquered he shall "chafe the high honor of sharing in such noble misfortune."

We insert the following account of the funeral of General Barry as a notice of it was omitted in Friday's paper.
(BANGOR, May 14, 1863.)
The city will be returning. It is now in the midst of a great mourning. The funeral of General Barry, who was killed at the battle of Antietam, was held on Friday morning.

At 12 o'clock the military, consisting of the Guard of Honor, a detachment of the 15th regiment, and a detachment of the 10th Maine, under command of Captain E. J. Morse, formed into line and escorted to the residence of the late General Barry.
